

2006 La Peira Coteaux du Languedoc les
Obriers Terrasses du Larzac

Rating: 93
Drink: 2008-2015

Although this blend of 65% Cinsault and 35% Carignan is not from the Rhone Valley, since my colleague, David Schildknecht, has not had an opportunity to taste it, it's included here. This estate aims to rival the great Negly for making the top wines in Languedoc, and this 2006 is their introductory offering. Falling somewhere between a great Cote Rotie and a top-notch Hermitage, it boasts a dense purple color along with a super-ripe nose of blackberries, cassis, charcoal, wood smoke, and spice. Beautifully textured, full-bodied, and opulent, it is a stunning example of what can be accomplished in this backwater appellation. Drink it over the next 5-7 years.

Importer: Eric Solomon, European Cellars, Charlotte, NC;
tel. (704) 358-1565...

- Robert Parker (August, 2008)

Copyright 2009, The Wine Advocate, Inc. - Reprinted with permission

2006 La Peira Coteaux du Languedoc les
Obriers Terrasses du Larzac

Rating: 93
Drink: 2008-2015

Although this blend of 65% Cinsault and 35% Carignan is not from the Rhone Valley, since my colleague, David Schildknecht, has not had an opportunity to taste it, it's included here. This estate aims to rival the great Negly for making the top wines in Languedoc, and this 2006 is their introductory offering. Falling somewhere between a great Cote Rotie and a top-notch Hermitage, it boasts a dense purple color along with a super-ripe nose of blackberries, cassis, charcoal, wood smoke, and spice. Beautifully textured, full-bodied, and opulent, it is a stunning example of what can be accomplished in this backwater appellation. Drink it over the next 5-7 years.

Importer: Eric Solomon, European Cellars, Charlotte, NC;
tel. (704) 358-1565...

- Robert Parker (August, 2008)

Copyright 2009, The Wine Advocate, Inc. - Reprinted with permission